

NUTRITIONAL & ALLERGEN INFORMATION

At Checkers and Rally’s restaurants, we are proud to serve tasteful and quality items from our menu to our guests. Although we provide known allergen information, please be aware that we are incapable of guaranteeing that any of our menu items are free of allergens due to the use of shared equipment and handling common allergens throughout our restaurants. Guests and consumers at risk with allergies should exercise judgment when ordering.

We encourage those at risk to check out <http://www.foodallergy.org> and <https://www.fda.gov/food/food-labeling-nutrition/food-allergies> for more educational information.

Food Allergies

Anyone can be allergic to any food, but these foods are the most common triggers for allergic reactions:

Prevent allergic reactions by following these tips:

Always wash your hands before and after handling food.

Clearly communicate with your team members when a guest informs you of a food allergy.

For any ingredient questions, please refer to a manager.

Avoid cross-contact by using separate utensils, cooking surfaces, and storage containers. Clean and sanitize all surfaces and equipment thoroughly.

Severe reactions can occur if someone eats or comes into contact with food they are allergic to.

Symptoms may include:

Skin reactions:
Hives, rash itching or swelling

Breathing problems:
Difficulty breathing, wheezing, shortness of breath, tightness in the chest

Cardiovascular symptoms:
Dizziness or fainting

Call 911 immediately if someone is experiencing severe symptoms.
